Howard

About The Coach . . .

Few coaches in the nation today can look back on so many glorious years as Frank Howard. The bountiful harvest began in his undergraduate days at Alabama when the Crimson Tide played in the 1931 Rose Bowl game.

Coming to Clemson the same year as line coach he served with the Tigers in that capacity when they went to the 1940 Cotton Bowl. Since then he has carried his own teams to the Gator Bowl twice, the Orange Bowl twice and to the Sugar Bowl.

In 1940, 1948, 1956 and 1958 his teams were conference champions; in 1948 and 1958 he was the conference coach of the year; he has coached numerous all-conference players; his travels hold an international flavor; he is in constant demand as a banquet and clinic speaker; and twice his Clemson friends have presented him with a new car and on another occasion, a complete silver service.

Such is the life of a man who after 19 years of coaching owns 106 wins, 68 losses and 10 ties. Only five other active coaches own more wins.

In six years of Atlantic Coast Conference football under Howard Clemson has won 18, lost 9, tied 1 in league wars and overall the record is 37-21-3.

rule changes for 1959

by Charles W. Tucker, Jr.

"Unless I miss my guess, those goal posts are wider apart this year." Well, you are right, my friend, they are wider apart this year. Last season, and as far back as most of us can remember, they were nineteen feet and two inches across, outside measurement. This season they are twenty-four feet across, outside measurement, or approximately five feet wider. "How come?" The answer is simple: To encourage more field goal attempts and further open up the game of football. There was considerable talk of moving the goal posts up to the goal line, ten yards closer, such as they are in professional football; and everyone knows how important the field goal has become in the "Pro" Game. On the other hand, the Rules Committee of the N. C. A. A. felt in the best interests of safety they had better leave the goal posts on the end line where they have been for many years. The alternative was to widen the distance between the uprights by five feet and in this way encourage more field goal attempts.

There were fewer changes in the rules this year than heretofore, but the following will be most noticed.

from following kickoff, or declining score and repeating try after penalty.

This is a significant rules change and could penalize Team B severely for a defensive foul on the try for point after a touchdown. As you will recall, the try is now made from the three-yard line and counts two points if it results in what would have been a touchdown, and one point if it results in what would have been a field goal or safety. Let's assume Team A has scored a touchdown and is about to make the try from the three-yard line. They are successful in a field goal attempt, and on the play Team B is offside. Under last year's rule, Team A is awarded one point for the field goal and Team B is penalized five yards on the following kickoff. This year Team A gets a real break as they can elect to take the penalty and repeat the try. In this case, the ball would be placed down on the one and one half yard line and Team A would most likely go for the two points.

1. No distance penalty shall exceed half the distance from the enforcement spot to the offending team's goal line.

As an example of the application of the new rule, let's assume that Team A has the ball on Team B's fifteen-yard line. On the next play, Team B was detected holding Team A's end on the line of scrimmage. The penalty for this foul is fifteen yards, and last year the ball would have been placed on Team B's one yard line after the distance penalty had been marked off. This year the maximum penalty would place the ball on the seven and a half yard line (one half the distance to the goal). The only distance penalty that will place the ball on the one-yard line this year is for a defensive foul committed on the two-yard line.

3. Substitution rule further liberalized to permit free substitution of one player of each team when game clock is stopped.

Under last year's Substitution Rule, any player could re-enter the game once during the same quarter. In other words, the same player could be in and out of the game eight times during the four quarters. This year the rule has been further liberalized to the extent that one player of either team may go into the game between downs when the clock is stopped, and this does not count as one of his official entries.

4. Number of time outs changed from four to five.

This year each team will be allowed five free time outs without penalty, in each half. Last year the number was reduced from five to four, but now the Rules Committee has decided to allow the same number as in the years prior to 1958.

2. On successful try for point(s) with foul by Team B, Team A has choice of accepting score and penalty

SCORING WITH "UNIFORMS OF DISTINCTION"

Before the kickoff both teams can look like the winner. Individual ability, teamwork, coaching, loyalty and spirit add up in favor of the ultimate victor. It's hard to put your finger on the reason. We specialize in furnishing uniforms to Clemson College and many other fine colleges and universities. Into them goes material — workmanship — design — craftsmanship. The result — "Uniforms of Distinction" — winners wherever value and appearance count.

Today's Game

Today's Clemson opponent — N. C. State — has always been tough for the Tigers even though the dwellers of "Death Valley" hold a 22-7-1 edge over the Wolfpack. Down through the years 14 of the games have been decided by a touchdown or less. Clemson's largest margin of victory has been 27 points (twice) while the widest Wolfpack margin has been 18 points (twice). The last four games have been decided by a touchdown, with Clemson holding three wins to one loss in this double brace of tussles. In the preceding three games (1956-57-58), the winning team has tallied 13 points and were later crowned conference champions, Clemson twice and N. C. State once.

Clemson will be defending its conference crown for the third time in the young season. The Tigers are currently riding atop the ACC with a 2-0 record and own a 2-1 mark through the first three. This will be State's second loop contest, having fallen to the North Carolina Tar Heels 20-12 last Saturday. The 'Pack opened the season with a 15-13 victory over Virginia Tech. The Tigers have defeated North Carolina (20-18) and Virginia (47-0) while losing to Georgia Tech (16-6).

Clemson will be without the services today of its starting fullback, Doug Cline, who suffered a broken hand in the Tech clash and is expected to be out of action from two to three weeks. Otherwise, the Tigers should be pretty well at full strength, although some of the players have been hospitalized with a virus during the week.

State brings one of the most heralded sophomores in the nation to the Clemson campus — quarterback Roman Gabriel. The 6-4, 204-pounder was named sophomore-of-the-year on several pre-season magazine selections.

Game notes: Clemson and State first met in 1899, three years after the Tigers fielded their first team; the Tigers have scored 315 points to 167 for the 'Pack in the 30 previous games; Coach Frank Howard has an 11-4 mark with State.

STUDENT FOOTBALL ~

What It Has Meant to Me

HOWARD BRONSON, Guard
U. S. Air Force Academy

I've always enjoyed the contact, especially since at my size I'm usually up against someone quite a bit bigger. It's the challenge . . . the constant sizing up of a situation, reacting quickly, and then following through.

PRENTICE GAUTT, Fullback
University of Oklahoma

Football certainly builds character. Then you have the opportunity to meet many different types of guys and you have to learn how to get along with other people. Football is very valuable in later life because you learn how to take defeat as well as victory.

BILL CARPENTER, End
U. S. Military Academy

Football is more than just a game to me. Sure I love contact and the sense of satisfaction a successful play produces. The importance of the game, however, was clearly imparted by Coach Earl Blaik when he said: "The strategy, tactics, physical exertion and teamwork required on the football field simulate actual combat conditions." Since mine is the profession of arms, I find playing the game a valuable asset to me.

DONALD FLOYD, Tackle
Texas Christian University

Football is a rugged American game, one which offers the vigorous young man an opportunity to excel both physically and mentally. Aside from the thrill of exciting play, it teaches such values as team-play, sportsmanship, physical stamina and determination in a way you never forget."

LOU CORDILEONE, Tackle
Clemson College

One thing makes me like football — contact. There is nothing more satisfying than to make a good, clean, hard block and spring a fast back into the clear; or to throw an opposing back for a loss. Football games are either won or lost in the line and the degree with which you carry out your assignment indicates who is the best man — you or your counterpart.

CURTIS MERZ, End
University of Iowa

Football brings me great satisfaction in achievement. There is a thrill in preparing for big games and a challenge for me to do my best. I like the physical contact and the attempts to out-manuever the defense to receive a forward pass. One of the important things is the development of team spirit, working with the other players and becoming a part of a close-knit unit.

JAKE CROUTHAMEL, Halfback
Dartmouth College

Competition, the thrill of contact sport, and the challenge to the ability of an individual are my reasons for liking to play football. College competition is of course, best of all, and you never enter a game that you don't know that you'll be facing the very best an opponent can throw at you. This makes it all the better as far as I'm concerned, I like football, I like to play football. Getting that extra foot after an opponent has tried to stop you is a challenge everytime.

JOHNNY ROBINSON, Halfback
Louisiana State University

I like football, because I love all forms of competitive athletics. Football presents a particular challenge to me because it not only is a test of physical strength, but it is also a game that requires considerable intelligence and concentration.

BOB SIMMS, End
Rutgers University

I get fun, exercise and a thrill from competing in football; but more important, I've learned one of life's most important lessons: those who train most conscientiously and try hardest will succeed or be unashamed in defeat.

WAYNE CROW, Quarterback
University of California

Football gives me the opportunity to compete with the finest athletes in our country. To be successful in this high competition I must gain the respect of my teammates. This can only be done by disciplining myself into giving a full effort every day. This is true in my personal life. Respect can be gained only by discipline and effort. This is why I like football — it teaches me principles on the field that are to be used all through my life.

1959-60 Basketball . . .

The usual tough schedule stares Clemson in the face again on the basketball courts this season with all seven Atlantic Coast Conference teams being met twice. Home-and-home games are also planned with Furman and Davidson and single games against Erskine, Tennessee, Villanova and Florida State.

The Tigers will participate in one holiday tournament, that being the All-College festival in Oklahoma City, Okla., Dec. 28-29-30. Other teams in the tourney are Cornell, Niagara, Bowling Green, (O.), Utah State, Wichita, Tulsa and Oklahoma City.

Coach Press Maravich, starting his fourth season at Clemson, is optimistic about the outlook for the coming year. The Tigers ended in a dead heat for sixth place in the ACC last season, highest any Clemson team has been since the loop was formed.

Returning for the upcoming cage wars are eight lettermen. Add to these some promising sophomores and Maravich could produce his best team since arriving here from Aliquippa (Pa.) High.

George Krajack, who lead the team in scoring with a 13.0 mark as a junior, spearheads the group of veterans. Bill Warren (9.2), Don Carver (9.1), Walt Gibbons (6.6), Earle Maxwell (5.2), Dutch Shample (5.0), Ed Krajack (4.1) and Frank Clarke (1.7) are all vieing for an opening berth.

But these eight have some outstanding competition in three freshmen, namely Choppy Patterson, Bob Benson and Tom Mahaffey.

... that's TEXIZE!

Try all these famous Texize household products and find out why they've won out in millions of homes. All will perform to your highest expectations.

The Texize secret? Modern chemistry plus bold imagination to make fine products better and better and better.

What Texize has done for the home, Texize has done for industry in general and the textile industry in particular. Indeed, Texize derives its name from its first products — textile sizings . . . a fact well known to Clemsonites who know the help given Clemson by Texize in behalf of the textile industry.

That contribution to Clemson and to textiles will continue to grow in the future as in the past.
